You are invited to the fifth annual 2023 Positive Peace Conference.

Join and share ideas with internationally renowned leaders from the public, private, academic, philanthropic and civil society sectors and explore new ways of creating and sustaining peace.

The 5th Positive Peace Conference brings together diverse thought leaders from private industry, foundations, governments, and non-profit organisations to celebrate and learn from the latest advancements in the field of peacebuilding. Hosted by the international think tank, the Institute for Economics & Peace, the event is held in partnership with the Freeman Spogli Institute for International Studies (Center on Democracy, Development and the Rule of Law) and represents an exceptional learning, networking, and strategic planning opportunity for those working to strengthen the attitudes, institutions and structures that create and sustain levels of peacefulness at local, regional and global levels.

The Institute for Economics & Peace is the world's leading think tank dedicated to developing metrics to analyse peace and quantify its economic value. With research, communications and partnerships headquartered in Sydney, Australia, IEP also has offices in New York, Brussels, Mexico City, and Harare working on outreach, education and partnership development.

Positive Peace can be defined as the attitudes, institutions and structures that create and sustain peaceful societies. In contrast to the pursuit of a mere decline in violence or conflict, the study of Positive Peace places emphasis on what enables societies to thrive and reframes the focus towards systemic change.

This simple shift provides an entirely new way of conceptualizing peace that greatly expands the notion of who may be considered a peacebuilder, and the tools we can use to reduce conflict and build prosperity.

The 2023 Positive Peace Conference is a free, all-day event, which includes a complimentary breakfast, lunch and closing reception.

Registration for the event is essential.
